

Business Career Development – Honors in Business Collaborations

The UConn Business Career Development Office (BCDO) looks forward to working with Honors students to support their professional growth and career development. The resources and guidance offered to all students will support the development of an Honors student in the School of Business, but as an added bonus, if an Honor student completes 5 of the 7 action steps below, those honors students can complete their "Engagement in the Field" requirement.

- Attend a Virtual Resume Workshop to jump start your resume preparation
  - Join Sue Landolina, Business Career Consultant for a resume lab. This is an informal workshop held each week, which offers personalized tips and insight into creating a strong resume. This can be your first step in drafting your resume or a chance to ask general resume questions. Initial drafts are not needed to attend these sessions but are excellent first steps.
  - Schedule: Virtual meetings hosted Monday's at 1:00pm
  - Register thru Nexus under Upcoming Events for the "Business – Undergraduate Career Development" Resume Lab Virtual sessions

- Schedule a 1:1 Resume Review session with a Business Career Consultant
  - Students may schedule an in-person or virtual 1:1 meeting with any Business Career Consultant for a personalized review of their resume. This is an excellent opportunity to update your resume each semester.

- Schedule a 1:1 Practice Interview session with a Business Career Consultant
  - Practice Interviews are easy, relatable and informative for students. While there are many virtual resources to practice your interview skills, meeting 1:1 with a Business Career Consultant is personal and allows the opportunity to enhance your skills in real time. Many students also use this opportunity to practice for leadership interviews, class presentations and case competitions

- Practice networking by attending at least three Business Career Tuesdays.

- Career Tuesdays are an opportunity to meet with employers who want to connect with UConn students from all business majors at all class levels. Two options offered:
  - Business Career Tuesdays: In person employer visits hosted in Storrs in the School of Business Atrium Tuesdays from 12:00 – 2:30pm during October and November 2023. These are tabling events, which means there are no formal presentations or formal business attire required. Time commitment is as little as 10 minutes or as long as you and the recruiter wish to talk. Check in with BCDO team members at the sessions to receive credit
  - Virtual Career Tuesdays are casual live 30 minute Insight Sessions hosted by the Business Career Development team. Sessions include one guest employer scheduled by employer request on Tuesdays at 4:00pm. Alumni and recruiters provide students with information specific to UConn students about the organization's hiring practices and how students can best align their personal experience with the employer's needs. This makes students better informed candidates when applying to and interviewing with the organization.
